The internet is an amazing thing and teaching children to use it safely empowers them to access it!

A child's online identity

What does your child love doing online?
What services and devices do they use?

What our goals as educators are...

Children are safe and know how to be safe online, understanding consent around usage and access.

Children are efficient in their use of ICT

Ensuring our children are responsible, competent, confident and creative users of information and communication technology.

Children are informed and know how to use ICT safely and can use it for all the wonderful positives the internet and ICT has

Children can design and make programs, use a range of ICT platforms and understand how to optimise their use of apps and programs

CONDUCT

Children need to be aware of the impact that their online activity can have on both themselves and other people, and the digital footprint that they create on the internet.

It's easy to feel anonymous online and it's important that children are aware of who is able to view, and potentially share, the information that they may have posted.

When using the internet, it's important to keep personal information safe and not share it with strangers.

CONTENT

Some online content is not suitable for children and may be hurtful or harmful. This is true for content accessed and viewed via social networks, online games, blogs and websites.

It's important for children to consider the reliability of online material and be aware that it might not be true or written with a bias.

There can be legal consequences for using or downloading copyrighted content, without seeking the author's permission.

CONTACT

It is important for children to realise that new friends made online may not be who they say they are and that once a friend is added to an online account, you may be sharing your personal information with them.

If you have concerns that your child is, or has been, the subject of inappropriate sexual contact or approach by another person (including, but not limited to, a request to meet up or a request for images/videos), it's vital that you report it to the police via the Child Exploitation and Online Protection Centre (www.ceop.police.uk).

CYBERBULLYING

Cyberbullying is bullying which takes place online or using technology. It is important that young people know what to do if they or their friends are the victims of cyberbullying.

Cyberbullying can happen in many different ways including unkind messages or comments, the sharing of embarrassing photos or exclusion from group chats.

Children need to understand that their online actions can be just as hurtful as offline actions and that seeking to deliberately hurt or upset someone is always unacceptable.

What we do in school

ICT has become a broad part of our curriculum – we teach children how to use ICT

Safety is a huge concern so we subtly and explicitly teach this to the children

We promote the creative use of ICT

We deliver assemblies on the safe use of ICT including children's online identity

We use outside agencies such as google to deliver messages about the internet and ICT

We deliver inset to staff around ICT and internet usage to enable them to deliver a curriculum to our children which will ensure they are computer literate

What adults at home can do

Talk to children about ICT and the internet

Establish boundaries and a routine

Give the children clarity and consistency

Get to know the safety features available to protect children and support adults

Be curious, not furious

Keep talking to them – they're growing up in a world very different to the one which we grew up in. Their challenges are different to ours. They need to know they can talk to us.
