

History at Teignmouth Community School

At Teignmouth Community School, we want all pupils to develop an appreciation and understanding of the past by studying significant events and people within or beyond living memory, gaining an appreciation of how these influence the world today. They will have opportunities to investigate and interpret the past, evaluating a range of primary and secondary sources, understanding how interpretations may differ. By exploring chronology, they will build a picture of Britain's past as well as that of the wider world, and to be able to communicate historically. Our curriculum will include examples of local events and significant people enabling them to learn how their own area has evolved over time.

EYFS

Pupils will begin to understand the concept of time and change by reflecting on their own lives and the lives of their significant adults. They will begin to build a bank of time related vocabulary and share stories based in differing periods of time. Pattern, sequencing and comparison will be experienced through a range of adult led and continuous provision activities.

KS1

Pupils will develop an awareness of the past, using common words and phrases relating to the passing of time. They will be able to place people and events they study into a chronological framework, learning to identify similarities and differences between life in different periods. They will learn a range of everyday historical terms. They should ask and answer questions, choosing and using parts of stories and other sources to show that they know and understand key features of events. They should understand some of the ways in which we find out about the past and identify different ways in which it is represented.

KS2

Pupils should continue to develop a chronologically secure knowledge and understanding of British, local and world history, establishing clear narratives within and across the periods they study. They should note connections, contrasts and trends over time and develop the appropriate use of historical terms. They will respond to and devise historically relevant questions about change, cause, similarity and difference, and significance. They will recount and comment upon events or construct arguments, selecting and organising information from primary and secondary sources.

What History is taught at Teignmouth?

This is an overview of what the year groups will cover in our 2 year rolling programme.

	Civilisations Learn that they have similarities and differences that connect them to and distinguish them from others.			Civilisations The lives of people in the Stone Age, Bronze Age and Iron Age changed and developed over time due to the discovery and use of the materials stone, bronze and iron. These developments made it easier for people to farm, create permanent settlements and protect their land. The achievements and influences of the ancient Greeks on the wider world include the English alphabet and language; democracy, including jury trial by , sport and the Olympic Games; the subjects of mathematics, science and philosophy and art, architecture and theatre.	Civilisations The cause of the Roman invasion of Britain was to gain land, slaves and precious metals, after conquering many other countries. The consequence of invasion was conflict with Celtic tribes living Britain. Over time, many people in the east of England became Romanised, living in Roman towns and taking on aspects of Roman culture, such as religion and language. Many people in the west of Britain retained their Celtic characteristics and lifestyle. The Viking invasion and Anglo-Saxon	Civilisations The characteristics of ancient civilisations include cities, government, language, writing, customs, numerical systems, calendars, architecture, art, religion, inventions and social structures, all of which have influenced the world over the last 5000 years.	Civilisations Common traits include personal charisma; strong beliefs; the right to rule, including by democratic vote or the divine right of kings, and personal qualities, such as determination and the ability to communicate. Motives include birthright; the desire to acquire land, money and natural resources or the defence of personal, religious or political beliefs. A great achievement or discovery may be significant because it affects the lives of other people or the natural world, moves human understanding forward, rights wrongs and injustices or celebrates the highest attainments of humans.

					defence of England lead to many conflicts. In AD 878, the Anglo-Saxon king, Alfred the Great, made peace with the Vikings, who settled in Danelaw in the east of England. Over time, the Anglo-Saxons defeated the remaining Viking rulers and the Vikings in England agreed to be ruled by an Anglo-Saxon king.

They develop an understanding of changes over time	Artefacts To know that some objects are old and some are new. The size, shape, colour and material may vary.	Artefacts Historical artefacts are objects that were made and used in the past. The shape and material of the object can give clues about when and how it was made and used.	Artefacts Artefacts are objects and things made by people rather than natural objects. They provide evidence about the past. Examples include coins, buildings, written texts or ruins.	Artefacts Interviews, diaries, letters, journals, speeches, autobiographies, artefacts, photographs and witness statements are historical source materials. However, some historical source materials are more reliable than others. For example, written accounts may be biased, depending on the viewpoint of the writer.	Artefacts Historical artefacts can reveal much about the object's use or owner. For example, highly decorated artefacts made of precious materials and created by highly skilled craftsmen suggest the owner was wealthy and important, whereas simple objects made of readily available materials suggest the owner was poor and unimportant.	Artefacts Bias is when an author's viewpoint is so strong that the information they produce is unbalanced or prejudiced. Biased sources can contain positive or negative information. Biased sources may also miss out key facts that don't fit with the author's opinion or include incorrect information.	Artefacts Bias is when an author's viewpoint is so strong that the information they produce is unbalanced or prejudiced. Cornerstones

Use stories to identify real and fantasy worlds and suggest why they might vary

Historical enquiry

Use paintings, photographs and stories about the past for discussion

Organisation, evaluation and communication of learning

Group/class discussions, painting and drawing, sorting images, simple labelling activities

Historical enquiry
Begin to recount details from the past from pictures and stories
Use role play to retell events

Organisation, evaluation and communication of learning

Class discussions, role play, art work, ordering images and artefacts, labelling activities

Historical enquiry

Look carefully at accounts and objects to find information
Begin to answer questions about the past from a simple text/text extract

Organisation, evaluation and communication of learning

Discussion, write answers to questions, role play, art work, produce timeline of 3 or 4 images

Historical enquiry

Use a mixed range of resources to find information
Observe small details
Select and link relevant facts

Organisation, evaluation and communication of learning

Discussion and oral reporting, explain the sorting of facts/images, place images on given timeline, debate in character

Which sources best answer questions about time studied
Use internet and library for group research

Historical enquiry

Use evidence to build a picture of a past event
Choose material that supports ideas about a single aspect of time studied
Compose own questions

Organisation, evaluation and communication of learning

Simple written report in character, sort statements to support differing points of view, sort events on own timeline within a given range

Offer reasons for differences
Use terms – primary, secondary source
Use internet and library for independent Research

Historical enquiry

Begin to identify primary and secondary sources
Question reliability of sources
Give reasons why there might be different accounts

Organisation, evaluation and communication of learning

Report writing, using evidence to support a point of view, make notes from group research, produce a timeline for main episodes in an event

Consider ways of checking for accuracy
Understand that different evidence leads to different conclusions
Confidently use internet and library for research

Historical enquiry

Recognise primary and secondary sources
Know that representations can be used to influence others (bias/propaganda)
Combine knowledge from different sources to give an account

Organisation, evaluation and communication of learning

Write about changes and the reasons for changes, produce a timeline of events, make notes from individual research, write about an event/change from 2 different points of view
